

CSCF, in Collaboration with Rotaract, Donates Musical Instruments to Support Student Development

The Cave Shepherd Community Fund (CSCF), in collaboration with Rotaract Barbados, donated a range of musical instruments to Milton Lynch Primary School, supporting the development of their music education programme.

This initiative reflects a shared commitment by the CSCF and Rotaract to youth empowerment and holistic education, recognising the important role that music plays in student development, creativity, discipline, and self-expression.

The donated instruments will enhance the schools' music programmes, providing students with greater access to structured musical training and opportunities to explore and develop their talents within a supportive learning environment.

"At the Cave Shepherd Community Fund, we believe in empowering young people through initiatives that support both academic and personal development," said Rene Delmas, Chairman, Cave Shepherd Community Fund. "Music education offers students a valuable creative outlet while building confidence, teamwork and discipline. We are pleased to partner with Rotaract and the Milton Lynch Primary School - the only all boys school on the island, on this meaningful initiative."

Christina Ruck, President of Rotaract Barbados and an employee of Cave Shepherd subsidiary, PayceDigital, also welcomed the collaboration, noting the importance of partnerships in delivering sustainable impact within schools and communities.

"This collaboration demonstrates what can be achieved when organisations work together with a shared focus on youth development and community upliftment," Christina said.

The Cave Shepherd Community Fund continues to support initiatives that positively impact children and young people across Barbados, with a focus on youth development, collaboration and community well-being. Through partnerships with organisations such as Rotaract, CSCF aims to deliver meaningful, sustainable support where it is most needed.
